DESCRIPTION

This course is an introduction to theoretical syntax within the framework of generative grammar. In-class discussion will focus on English, though problem sets may cover other languages.

OBJECTIVES

The goal is to become familiar with theoretical concepts and principles, and to develop skills in syntactic description, analysis and argumentation, particularly with respect to syntactic constituents (phrase structure), binding theory (constraints on the distribution of different types of noun phrases) and subjacency (constraints on movement).

OUTCOMES

Students will be able to draw syntactic trees for phrases and sentences that include null and moved elements. They will be able to construct a theoretical argument and create relevant examples to justify an analysis represented in syntactic trees. They will become familiar with basic principles binding and subjacency, and apply them to explain the (un)grammaticality of English phrases and sentences.

DISTRIBUTION OF GRADES

Assignment #1:	5%
Assignments #2-4:	21% (= 3 x 7%)
In-class quizzes	14% (= 7 x 2 %; best 7 of 9)
In-class midterm exam	25%
Final exam	35%

GRADING SCALE

A+ = 97-100	A = 93-96	A- = 88-92	B+ = 83-87	B = 78-82	B- = 73-77
C+ = 68-72	C = 63-67	C- = 58-62	D+ = 53-57	D = 50-52	F = 0-49

COURSE NOTES:

Your laptop/tablet should only be open for the purposes of note-taking, or viewing readings or lecture notes. An laptop open to other pages not only distracts its owner, but those sitting in a place where they can see the screen, so pick your seats carefully!

All homework should be typed, though hand-drawn trees will be permitted.

Policies with respect to missed due dates/midterms are provided in the course syllabus posted on D2L. With 2 quizzes not counting, make-up quizzes will only be offered in cases where the student unavoidably misses 3 or more, subject to satisfactory documentation being provided.

ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

1. Plagiarism is a serious offence, the penalty for which is an F on the assignment and possibly also an F in the course, academic probation, or requirement to withdraw. Plagiarism exists when:

- a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test);
- b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author;
- c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or
- d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted."

Plagiarism occurs not only when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement but also when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. A bibliography is insufficient to establish which portions of the student's work are taken from external sources; footnotes or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose.

2. Cheating at tests or examinations includes but is not limited to dishonest or attempted dishonest conduct such as speaking to other candidates or communicating with them under any circumstances whatsoever; bringing into the examination room any textbook, notebook, memorandum, other written material or mechanical or electronic device not authorized by the examiner; writing an examination or part of it, or consulting any person or materials outside the confines of the examination room without permission to do so, or leaving answer papers exposed to view, or persistent attempts to read other students' examination papers.

3. Other academic misconduct includes, but is not limited to, tampering or attempts to tamper with examination scripts, class work, grades and/or class records; failure to abide by directions by an instructor regarding the individuality of work handed in; the acquisition, attempted acquisition, possession, and/or distribution of examination materials or information not authorized by the instructor; the impersonation of another student in an examination or other class assignment; the falsification or fabrication of clinical or laboratory reports; the non-authorized tape recording of lectures.

4. Any student who voluntarily and consciously aids another student in the commission of one of these offences is also guilty of academic misconduct.

WRITING ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

Writing skills should cross all disciplines. Students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their courses and, where appropriate, instructors can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Centre in the Effective Writing Office (<http://www.efwr.ucalgary.ca/>) can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.
