DESCRIPTION: This course is an introduction to theoretical syntax within the framework of generative grammar. In-class discussion will focus on English, though problem sets may cover other languages.

OBJECTIVES: The goals of LING 301 are to become familiar with theoretical concepts and principles, and to develop skills in syntactic description, analysis and argumentation, particularly with respect to syntactic constituents (phrase structure), binding theory (constraints on the distribution of different types of noun phrases) and subjacency (constraints on movement).

OUTCOMES: Students will be able to draw syntactic trees for phrases and sentences that include null and moved elements. They will be able to construct a theoretical argument and create relevant examples to justify an analysis represented in syntactic trees. They will become familiar with basic principles binding and subjacency and apply them to explain the (un)grammaticality of phrases and sentences.

As stated in the University Calendar, it is at the instructor’s discretion to round off either upward or downward to determine a final grade when the average of all graded work is between two letter grades. To determine final letter grades for this course, final percentage grades will be rounded up or down to the nearest whole percentage (e.g., 89.5% will be rounded up to 90%, but 89.4% will be rounded down to 89%).

INTEGRITY AND CONDUCT

All members of the University community have a responsibility to familiarize themselves with the Statement on Principles of Conduct, and to comply with the University of Calgary Code of Conduct and Non-Academic Misconduct policy and procedures (available at: <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k.html>).

Academic misconduct

Academic Misconduct refers to student behaviour which compromises proper assessment of a student’s academic activities and includes: cheating; fabrication; falsification; plagiarism; unauthorized assistance; failure to comply with an instructor’s expectations regarding conduct required of students completing academic assessments in their courses; and failure to comply with exam regulations applied by the Registrar.

For information on the Student Academic Misconduct Policy and Procedure please visit: <https://www.ucalgary.ca/legal-services/university-policies-procedures/student-academic-misconduct-policy>

Additional information is available on the Academic Integrity Website at <https://ucalgary.ca/student-services/student-success/learning/academic-integrity>

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY AND COPYRIGHT LEGISLATION

Course materials created by instructors (including presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the instructor. These materials may not be reproduced, redistributed or copied without the explicit consent of the instructor. All students are required to read the University of Calgary policy on Acceptable Use of Material Protected by Copyright (<https://www.ucalgary.ca/legal-services/university-policies-procedures/acceptable-use-material-protected-copyright-policy>) and requirements of the Copyright Act (<https://laws-lois.justice.gc.ca/eng/acts/C-42/index.html>) to ensure they are aware of the consequences of unauthorised sharing of course materials (including instructor notes, electronic versions of textbooks etc.). Students who use material protected by copyright in violation of this policy may be disciplined under the Non-Academic Misconduct Policy.
